As compared to the other similar apps out there, JJ Reminder brings the whole alarm configuration process to just three different options: name, time and message. The very basic GUI is mainly focused on these three options, so once you launch the app you have nothing else to do than to provide a name, pick a time and write down a message to be displayed together with the alarm. The application allows users to set up a sound for the alarm engine, with support for MP3, WAV and MIDI formats. Additionally, you can automatically save the alarms and settings when you close the app, which is quite a helpful option in case of a reboot. JJ Reminder works okay on every Windows version on the market and doesn't require special user privileges on newer flavors of the operating system. JJ Reminder is the simplest and very handy to use alarm application for Windows. It is very easy to use, while still giving the flexibility to manage a variety of alarms. It has a very simple and intuitive interface, which is easily recognized by novice users, and provides access to a variety of useful features. It is a great tool for

Name: A name for your alarm is absolutely necessary.JJ Reminder is perfect for reminding you about a particular activity or event, such as paying a bill. Time: Pick a time to activate your alarm and JJ Reminder will remind you about it. You can also set up a date-time reminder with one click. Message: A message is the body text that will be displayed together with the alarm. JJ Reminder allows you to use up to five different messages. You can easily choose between three languages: English, French, Russian. The application does not have a cloud feature that would allow you to save your reminders, settings and alarms in the cloud so you can access them via your mobile device. If you decide to purchase the paid version of the program you'll get all the features of the basic version, plus the data-backup option and scheduling of alarms. It's not often that an application comes with a fully functional freeware program, but with JJ Reminder you can have both options with the same software package. As long as your device has an internet connection, JJ Reminder will work fine and it's a handy tool for people who like to get a bunch of reminders about their daily routine and need to make sure they will be remembered. Check out this alert from Cloud Watch! Posted by: Please share your thoughts. I agree. JJ Reminder works fine but is missing several useful features and lacks a proper alarm manager. Perfect! Posted by: Please share your thoughts. Jjjj If you decide to purchase the paid version of the program you'll get all the features of the basic version, plus the data-backup option and scheduling of alarms. Hi, Thanks for the recommendation. JJ Reminder is a great app for a small reminder. It can serve as a task manager. And I did not know that you can change the sound. I'll give it a try. What's New in the JJ Reminder?

- A freeware reminder! A simple reminder program. This is a software which will remind you about something using a sound. Just select the thing you want to be reminded about, the reminder time, the option to show the message and set the sound for the alarm. You'll be surprised how good it sounds. The user interface is very basic (you can configure it using just three buttons), but it looks nice and good. Besides, the alarm can be easily disabled. - Free! Only a very basic reminder. But that's enough for some people. You can test the program for free. - There is no anything else than an alarm. You have no access to the whole date/time/alarms history. - The program can remind you about tasks. That means you can set a task to be postponed when you have a reminder, and when your task is scheduled (a program or an internet site), then the program will remind you. - The program is compatible with Windows 98, 2000, Me, XP, Vista and Windows 7. - The program is portable (a standalone application, you can copy the.exe file to the USB stick and use it in any Windows machine). It has a small size - only 1.3 MBytes. - The program comes with its own sound. You don't need to install any other program to play sounds. You have also the possibility to use an external sound file if you want to. - You can disable the alarm from the program. This is the most useful feature of the program. You can even "wake" the alarm from the program. (This means that the alarm will remind you at a determined time, and if you haven't deleted the alarm, then it will sound the alarm as usual). - You can configure the sound as you want. The default one is included in the program. You can either enable MP3, WAV or MIDI in order to configure the alarm. Requirements: - The minimum system requirements are Windows 95/98/2000/XP/Vista/Windows 7. - You can copy the application from this page to a USB stick. Note: - In order to be able to remind you about your tasks, a program "JJTask" is recommended. But you can still use this program without having any worries. - You can customize the alarm, if you want. Just copy the alarm sound to your profile. Downloads
